Strong ethical conduct is essential to earning and maintaining the trust of stakeholders and to supporting SBM Offshore’s long-term sustainable growth.

SBM Offshore maintains a zero-tolerance stance toward bribery, corruption, fraud, breaches of trade sanctions, money laundering, and any form of unlawful or unethical behavior. Speak Up Line Reports

In 2025, a total of 189 reports were received under SBM Offshore's Speak Up Policy. Of these, 115 reports are related to the category of potential 'Workplace Civility Violations' (including allegations of improper behavior, moral harassment and leadership issues) and 52 reports are related to the category of potential 'Code of Conduct Violations' (including allegations of fraud, sexual harassment, recruitment irregularities and leaks of confidential information).

The category of 'Other Reports' encompass reports that do not contain any allegation of potential violations of the Code of Conduct, Workplace Civility, internal policies, laws or regulations. This category typically covers issues such as interpersonal conflicts or matters that are typical in a normal working environment, dissatisfaction with performance evaluations, employment terms, or salary reviews – provided there is no indication of a breach of the Code of Conduct or Workplace Civility standards. These matters are not managed within the framework of the Speak Up Line but rather redirected to the appropriate function for handling through standard operational processes.

A total of 259 reports were closed in 2025, comprising 167 reports from 2025 and 92 reports from previous years. At year end, 22 reports remained under investigation, all from 2025 (out of 189). This significant progress in case closures during 2025 was driven by the coordinated efforts of a cross-functional task force established to address backlog cases from previous years, along with targeted process enhancements introduced through the new investigation framework. The framework incorporates a risk-based triage model that facilitates the allocation of cases to the appropriate functions and reinforces a well-defined segregation of roles and responsibilities. These combined improvements have resulted in a sustainable reduction in average case-closure times while reinforcing that reports are handled with consistency, respect, and rigor.

Following the conclusion of investigations, appropriate actions are taken based on the findings. These actions may be remedial and/or disciplinary in nature. Remedial actions can include strengthening processes and procedures, enhancing monitoring, training and coaching, and increasing awareness of expected behaviors. Disciplinary measures may encompass the issuance of written warnings or, in serious instances, the termination of employment.
